More Complications Than Expected: Eisenhower

President and Advisers Meet In Hideaway

Civil Defense and Gov't Relocation
Problems Studied

EMERGENCY WHITE HOUSE
— President Eisenhower conferred in the secret underground Pentagon with his National Security Council today on the nationwide atomic "disaster" which he said produced "more complications than I ever believed possible."

The President moved with his top military and defense advisers to the huge man-made cavern in a realistic follow-up to the imaginary nuclear attack which theoretically knocked out the capital and 60 other U. S. cities.

Earlier, he had declared a mock state of martial law after deciding that mounting "casualties" in the millions made it "essential" that the armed forces police the nation.

To reporters outside his own secret mountain hideaway, Mr. Eisenhower corrected an earlier impression that the Security Council meeting was to map military defense measures and atomic retaliation. He said the civil defense and government relocation phases of "Operation Alert, 1955," were the big problems.

Find Many Complications

"Incidentally," he said, "we found more complications yesterday than I ever believed possible."

The President fled here Wednesday in an exercise which sent 15,000 key government officials streaming to secret work quarters 30 to 300 miles from the "bombed out" capital.

"This is entirely a matter of civil defense and relocation," the President told newsmen before going to the underground Pentagon. "No military problem is assumed at all under this fictitious situation."

He added that "we are trying simply to see whether"—assuming the destruction of the nation's capital and its most vital cities—"the government could continue to function."

Grimmest of the make-believe problems confronted by the council was the mounting casualty list of millions "dead," millions "injured," and millions made "homeless."

The President left his emergency White House center and motored at the head of a small caravan to the alternate defense headquarters some miles away.

The small pool of newspaper, radio, magazine, and photographic reporters assigned to the President was halted by the military and kept away from the underground Pentagon.

Before leaving his own base, the President worked at his desk, signing documents and reading official papers concerned with the routine conduct of government. Camera-men were allowed to photograph the interior of his office, but were not permitted to take any pictures from the outside since geographic features conceivably could tip off its location.

The security council, which includes key members of the cabinet and top defense officials, was expected to review with Mr. Eisenhower not only the make-believe "damage" and "casualties" of Wednesday's simulated atomic raids on 61 cities, but also some real-life problems of government.

The security council regularly meets with Mr. Eisenhower on Thursdays. But today's session, deep in the bowels of the earth, was in dramatic contrast to the usual meeting in the paneled cabinet room of the White House.

President Sets Example
It underscored Mr. Eisenhower's determination to set an example of dead serious participation in "Operation Alert," the nation's biggest civil defense exercise.

The President has been deeply involved in the exercise since the sirens sounded in Washington at 12:08 p. m. EDT Wednesday when he left the White House in a limousine.

4. Establishment of a workable, competent civil defense organization "in every city, town and hamlet" to remove gaps in the state communications system.

FEPC Measure Is Rejected by Senate Group

House Committee
Approves Tax Bill
By 16 to 14 Vote

SPRINGFIELD — A Senate committee Wednesday killed the latest fair employment practices act and the Stratton-Daley tax program rolled ahead in the House.

The Senate Industrial Affairs committee sent the bill for an Illinois equality of opportunity commission to the floor today with a "do not pass" recommendation. The vote against the bill was 8-5 along party lines, Republicans against, Democrats for.

It was the fourth time the House had passed an FEPC-type bill and the Senate had killed it.

Tax Bill Advances

The House Revenue committee, by a narrow 16-14 vote, approved the bill for a 1-2 cent two-year boost in state sales taxes, and a bill for a "use" tax on out-of-state purchases by Illinoisans. The House Appropriations committee recommended passage of the bill to permit cities to levy a 1-2 cent sales tax without referendum. All three bills, major planks in the revenue program of Gov. William G. Stratton and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, go to the House floor. The Senate already has passed them.

Legislative conference committees were thrashing out the boundaries of three northwestern Illinois Senate districts, the only obstacle to final passage of legislative reapportionment.

Passage of any of the major legislation would make it the first of the session, which started Jan. 5 and now has exactly two weeks to run until the traditional and constitutionally favored closing date of June 30.

The defeated FEPC bill was designed to prohibit discrimination in employment on grounds of race, color or religion. The "Illinois Equality of Opportunity Commission" of five members would have administered the bill which applied only to commercial employers of more than 25 persons.

The FEPC Debate

Sen. Fred J. Smith (D-Chicago), the Senate's only Negro, indicated he would ask the full Senate to override the committee action. But he was given little chance of success.

Industry and business spokesmen opposed the bill before the committee, labor, Negro, teacher and other groups were for it.

The votes against: Republicans Bidwell, McClary, Hensley, Carpenter, Little, Lyons, Muhleman, Schlangenbuehl.

Voting for: Democrats Dougherty, Kocareck, Roti, Gray, and Monroe.

Paris Store Puts Up Nude Portrait of Marlon Brando's Girl Friend for Sale

PARIS (UP)—A full-length nude portrait of Marlon Brando's fiancée looked out today on the busy Place de l'Opera, mecca for foreign tourists.

The painting was put up for sale in a department store window, and French newspapers were wondering:

"Will Marlon buy it?"
The picture shows the American film star's 20-year-old girl friend, Josiane Mariani Berenger, reclining languidly on a red divan. She is wearing only a red scarf tied around her head.

Once the undraped subject of the painting became known, large groups of curious onlookers formed in front of the store window in the bustling Boulevard des Italiens. In the crowds were many American tourists, en route to the American Express a block away, or drifting over from the Cafe de la Paix, famed gathering place of travelers. The price of the portrait seemed adjusted to a movie star's wallet at 2 million francs, or $8,571. Sale of the painting is part of a charity campaign to send poor children to summer camps.

The subject of the portrait, Josiane, is the daughter of a French fisherman in the village of Bandol. She enjoyed a meteoric rise to fame last October when Brando suddenly popped up in Bandol and courted her on his motorbike.

The star of "On the Waterfront," his award-winning film, admitted last November that he had seen some of the naked pictures of his fiancée and admired them greatly. "It's art," he said at the time. "Why should I be upset?"

"OPERATION ALERT"—Defense Sec'y. Charles Wilson and Admiral Arthur Radford, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, board a helicopter near the Pentagon to be flown to a secret hideaway as President Eisenhower led 15,000 top officials out of the Capital in "Operation Alert." The test, to last three days, was designed to determine whether and how the Government could survive an H-bomb attack. (NEA Telephoto)

Illinois House Votes to Kill All Bills Still In Committees

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois House took the first step in drawing the curtain on the 69th General Assembly today by voting to kill all House bills still in its committees.

Constitutional requirements have traditionally ended legislative sessions June 30, just two weeks away.

The Republican administration move to close the door came after Democrats had salvaged seven bills to amend Gov. William G. Stratton's 1953 Toll Road Act.

The House voted to discharge committees from consideration of the toll road bills despite administration efforts to keep the bills bottled up.

The toll road bills, five by Rep. Jack Baird of Waukegan and two by Paul Simon of Troy, would:

1. Abolish the present three-member appointed Toll Road Commission, require the governor to name new commissioners, to three-year staggered terms and require Senate confirmation of the new appointees.
2. Repeal the provision that toll highway bonds bear 5 per cent interest.
3. Let the Legislature approve or

Peron Formally Excommunicated

VATICAN CITY (UP)—The Vatican today formally excommunicated Argentine President Juan D. Peron and all others connected with the arrest and deportation of two high Roman Catholic church dignitaries.

The formal excommunication decree was signed by Adeodato Giovanni Cardinal Piazza, secretary of the Sacred Consistorial Congregation.

It was published in the Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano. The congregation drafted its decree without awaiting the first-hand testimony of the expelled prelates, Msgr. Manuel Tato and Ramon Carlos Novoa.

British Sub Blows Up, Sinks; 15 Men Missing

PORTLAND, England (UP)—The British submarine Sidon exploded today in a mushroom plume of yellow smoke and plunged to the bottom of Portland harbor, carrying 13 men to their deaths.

Seven seamen were hospitalized with injuries.

The explosion, apparently in the torpedo compartment, ripped open the 217-foot submarine and sank it. More than six hours after the disaster an Admiralty spokesman said:

"It will be announced shortly in the House of Commons that we must abandon any hope of saving any of the 13."

The spokesman said the Sidon was alongside a supply ship taking on dummy torpedoes in preparation for sailing when the blast shattered the hull. The explosion was believed caused by the propellant charge, he said.

"The blast reached as far as the control room. The lights were extinguished. The submarine was filled with smoke and debris. Furniture and loose fittings jammed the forward bulkhead doors. The explosion occurred in the torpedo compartment," the spokesman said.

He said the torpedoes being loaded were not equipped with warheads.

Five of the 13 entombed men were rescued from the depot ship Maidstone who rushed aboard the submarine immediately after the blast. The delayed action sinking of the undersea craft claimed them along with 8 of its crewmen, including an officer.

Every submarine salvage vessel in Britain was ordered to the scene.

Witnesses said they saw crewmen leap into the sea shortly before the submarine plunged under the water.

One witness said the Sidon lay on the surface for "several minutes" after the blast. "A mushroom cloud of yellow smoke" rose from the stricken ship before it plunged under the water, the witness said.

Peron Gov't Says Situation Is Cleared Up

Military Aircraft
Bomb Palace; Gov't
Blames Navy Forces

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—Fighter planes strafed the government palace and crowds massed in the adjacent Plaza de Mayo at 3:36 p. m. (12:36 p. m. CST) today.

The planes also were bombing the entire Plaza de Mayo area and strafing the headquarters of the General Workers Confederation (CGT), several blocks from the palace.

Civilians and ground forces loyal to President Juan D. Peron manned anti-aircraft guns in the plaza.

At 3:45 p. m., three artillery shells, presumably from rebel warships offshore, fell near the palace.

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—A revolution broke out today against the government of President Juan D. Peron.

At 2:50 p. m. government radio said the situation was completely cleared up.

A communique said that Peron's forces were taking steps to repress the forces from the naval arsenal that moved into the government house. It was estimated that only about 200 men had moved into Casa Rosado.

The planes that bombed the city were believed to have come from the naval base at Punta del Indio. Military aircraft bombed the government palace facing Plaza de Mayo in the heart of the city, and heavy machinegun fire echoed through the huge square.

Peron was reported in the palace when seven military planes, identified as belonging both to the Argentine air force and the navy flew over the palace. However, he was believed to have escaped the bombing.

Both the rebels and the government issued radio announcements to the people.

An announcement from the revolutionists said the three armed forces were taking over the government, "together with the people."

Another announcement less than two hours later, attributed to the Peron government said:

"Some disturbances have taken place as a result of an uprising of a small part of naval aviation. Government troops are now fighting these forces. An airplane has been shot down by the army's air forces. The rest of the country is peaceful and tranquil."

In Washington, the State Department received word from its embassy in Buenos Aires of bombings and street fighting in the Argentine capital.

The government announced thru its emergency news center:

"The State Department has been in telephone communication with the American Embassy in Buenos Aires. The embassy reports as follows:

"The government house has been bombed. There is shooting in the streets. No embassy personnel have been injured."

It was not known how many persons were injured, but hospitals reported "many" casualties had been received for treatment.

A United Press reporter saw 20 bodies in the Plaza de Mayo. Shooting could be heard between the government house and the naval ministry. There is a wide open square between the two buildings.

A crowd was gathered in front of the United Press bureau three blocks from Plaza de Mayo. They appeared to be workers—with no guns—and were just milling around.

One report said that crowds had broken into an ammunition and gun store.

Heavy casualties were reported aboard a trolley bus reported struck by one of the bombs.

Ike Confident of Reserve Program

WASHINGTON. — President
Eisenhower said today he is confident that congress before adjourning will pass a measure "for building the kind of reserve forces our nation's security requires."

An administration bill to create a three million ready reserve in 1960 is stymied in the House and has not yet got into the legislative mill of the Senate.

The President's confidence was voiced in a letter to the American Legion in reply to a telegram from National Commander Seaborn Collins praising the President for insisting on a reserve program.

Long Trip
First American ship to sail around the world was the Columbia, which put out from Boston on Sept. 30, 1877, and took nearly three years for the trip.

some strange reason, Sen. Russell Long has played footsie with the power companies just as much as his father fought 'em. Russell voted with the power lobby on the Dixon-Yates fight when practically every other Democratic senator lined up on the other side. And now, believe it or not, he is about to sabotage Hell's Canyon, when again almost every Democrat again is lined up on the other side.

Hell's Canyon is the biggest undeveloped power site still remaining in the USA. In fact, it is the only remaining big canyon dredged out by nature that can effectively be harnessed to electric power without a tremendous expense of money. All the others have been pre-empted by man.

Russell Long happens to hold the key in this battle between public power and the big utilities, because Russell sits on the vitally important Senate Interior committee. On that committee are eight Democrats and seven Republicans. All the Republicans plan to vote against government operation of Hell's Canyon. All the Democrats plan to vote for government operation—all, that is, except Russell Long.

Russell says he is going to vote for the utilities and his one vote can bottle the bill up in committee.

Russell's fellow Democrats have pleaded with him. They have pointed out that his one vote will carve the tombstone of public power in the United States. They have pointed out that if this huge dam site on the Snake river feeding
Oregon, Idaho and Washington goes to private utilities, the public power fight will be lost all over the nation.

Senator Magnusson of Washington, who's up for re-election next year with tough competition from Governor Langlie, has almost got down on his knees to Russell Long.
"I need this in my campaign,"

Senator Magnusson has pleaded.
"You and I have weathered a lot of storms together. This is life and death in the northwest. On it will depend Senate elections in three states — Oregon, Washington and Idaho. It's up to you."

But Russell Long for some moved. Friends can't understand strange reason has remained un-why he has deserted the militant anti-utility policy of his late father.

LATINS IN INDIANA
Roly-poly Senator Capehart, the Indiana Republican, doesn't know it yet, but about 20 Latin-American ambassadors plan to give him a big party.

They want to express their appreciation of a party he gave them and also pay tribute to his great friendship for Latin America.

What Capehart did was to take the Latin-American envoys out to Indianapolis in four special railroad cars and treat them to a gala visit at the Indianapolis speedway.

It was not merely that Senator Capehart thought up the idea and paid for part of it himself; but that he was so personally solicitous of the Latin Americans touched them.

In Washington's diplomatic corps, it's the big European countries that usually get first attention from the White House and State Department. Latin Americans, at least since the days of Sumner Welles, are treated more or less like country cousins who will be with us always.

But Senator Capehart, who started his career as something of an isolationist, has made several trips to Latin America, has become a strong rooster for Pan American cooperation.

So he arranged with the Pennsylvania railroad to send the Latin-American envoys to Indianapolis in four private cars, had nine Chevrolet convertibles meet them in Indianapolis to take them around the speedway with flags flying. He also tipped off dynamic Gov. George Craig of Indiana to give them a gala reception.

Never had Hoosiers seen so many ambassadors all at one time. Seldom had the ambassadors had such a good time. Ambassador Victor Andrade of Bolivia, who brought along his guitar, celebrated by singing "Back Home In Indiana," with Argentine Ambassador Paz crooning ac-

Death Has 3 Lives

by Brett Halliday

Lucy Hamilton glanced quickly at the electric clock in her living room when the buzzer sounded downstairs. It wasn't quite nine o'clock, and Lucy frowned with pleased perplexity as she crossed the pleasant room to press the release catch on the front door of the apartment building.

Michael Shayne hadn't actually said he would drop by this evening, though he had asked her casually if she had any cognac in the larder when they left this downtown office together at five o'clock.

She hadn't really expected him. But she looked just right to receive an informal visitor, she assured herself with a sweeping downward glance as she turned the knob of her second-floor door and heard footsteps mounting the stairs. Michael hadn't seen this hostess gown before. It was a shimmering blue, with a tight bodice and short puffed sleeves, a flaring skirt that fell in folds from her hips to the tips of her blue satin mules.

She fluffed one hand through the brown curls at the back of her head, and put on her most pleased smile as she waited for her red-headed employer.

It was not Shayne. It was a man she thought she had never seen before. He was tall and slender and no older than she, and wore light tan slacks and an open-throated polo shirt of sky-blue knitted cotton. A gray, snap-brim felt was tilted rakishly low over his right eye, and Lucy's first brief glimpse of his face gave an impression of dark leanness with tightly drawn flesh over prominent cheekbones that was almost pain-oriented.

She involuntarily started to swing the door shut, thinking the ring of her bell had been a mistake and the man wanted one of the other three apartments on the second floor, but hesitated as he stepped on the top step and exclaimed hoarsely: "Hold it, Lucy. Don't you know who I am?"

She caught her lower lip between her teeth, studying him dubiously and trying to recall if she had ever heard his voice before.

Holding his right arm stiffly across his stomach and dragging his hat off awkwardly with his left hand, he essayed a reassuring smile that had in it the elements of entreaty and of fear. He stood like that, tight-lipped and with black eyes burning feverishly at her through the narrow crack, giving her an opportunity to look him over and decide for herself whether she would slam the door in his face or invite him inside.

Lucy shook her head slowly and said, "There must be some mistake. I'm Lucy Hamilton."

"I know." The words came from tight lips, clipped and impatient. "From New Orleans. I'm Jack Bristow." He paused a moment, waiting for some response, then added, "Ariene's brother."

Ariene Bristow, a girl who had worked with Lucy in New Orleans before she met Michael Shayne and became his secretary and followed him to Miami. A dark, vivid girl, with a penchant for laughter and for a bewildering succession of beaux that had caused Lucy to envy her in those days.

Yes, Ariene did have a brother. A memory came to her vaguely as she hesitated. An evening in Ariene's apartment. Just the two of them with a light supper cooked in Ariene's kitchenette and lots of girl talk.

A ring of the bell and the shambling, staggering entrance of a young man whom Ariene had introduced as her brother, and who had immediately made the most outrageous love to Lucy in an obviously self-assured manner that had infuriated her.

Yet, there had been lonely nights after that meeting when Lucy had dearly repented her prudish withdrawal from his attempted caresses and unhappily wondered if she would ever meet him again. There had been something dashing and fascinating about the young man.

That was the only time Lucy had seen Ariene Bristow's brother. She recalled tentative attempts to find out something more about him, which Ariene had not responded to. At that time Lucy had gotten the impression that he was a weakling and ne'er-do-well and probably best forgotten.

He looked queerly drawn and trembling as though on the verge of exhaustion. Lucy opened the door wider and stepped back, saying coldly, "Come in if you like. Is Ariene still in New Orleans?"

"Yes. Last time I heard."

He came through the door with a rush, staggering momentarily though there was no smell of liquor on his breath as he passed within a foot of Lucy. He stood in the center of the room with his back to her as she closed the door, leaning forward slightly from the hips and with his right arm still pressed stiffly against his stomach. He straightened when he heard the click of the door latch, turned and said with an effort of debonair gaiety: "Alone at last, Lucy dear. Have you had a phone call the last 15 minutes?"

Then his black eyes glazed over and he fell face forward onto the rug. Lucy ran to him and fell on her knees beside his crumpled body. His arm fell away from his body and lay inert, and there was a stain of blood on the blue polo shirt just beneath the bottom ribs on his right side.

Compressing her lips and fighting back panic, Lucy pulled shirt and undershirt up from his waistband and found a small wound oozing blood in the soft flesh. She sank back on her heels for a moment, considering what doctor she might reach most quickly, and was disconcerted to see his black lashes lift and to hear his voice:

"No doctor, Lucy. Why do you think I made it here? I'll be okay. Just let me rest a little. If I could lie down... and if you've got a drink."

She started to protest, but he placed both palms flat on the floor beside him and lifted himself to a sitting position, his eyes blazing at her with determination and command.

"Put a towel on your bed and let me lie there. I promise not to bleed much. And get me a drink. I just need to rest. Then I'll go on." He groped for her wrist and pulled himself upright and Lucy let herself be persuaded momentarily, thinking it was best to propitiate him and keep him quiet, that she would surreptitiously call a doctor as soon as he was safely in the bedroom, wondering what he had done to be afraid to have a doctor tend him.

With Jack Bristow leaning on her arm and stumbling a little, she led him into the bedroom where he sank onto the edge of the chaste single bed and shook his head stubbornly when she urged him to stretch out on the immaculate spread.

"Don't wanna cause you trouble," he mumbled. "Get towel. Lemme lie down few minutes."

She left him and hurried into the bathroom, flew back with a heavy towel which she spread out behind him. He relaxed on it with a wince of pain and then a deep sigh of relaxation. Closed his eyes but caught her wrist in a hurting grip when she tried to stand up.

Beads of sweat stood on his forehead and formed tiny rivulets down each temple. "I didn't do anything wrong, but I'm in a spot where I can't have a doctor see me. Not until I get a chance to clear things up. You're the only person I know in Miami. You've got to help me. Just let me stay a couple of hours and I'll clear out. You didn't answer me about a phone call."

"I haven't had one and you're shot," she said faintly.

Draft British Seamen as Strike Halts Luxury Ships

LONDON — The British government today began drafting striking merchant seamen into the military services after their unofficial strike had halted the sailing of the luxury liner Queen Mary and other passenger ships. Thousands of tourists were stranded.

A Labor Ministry spokesman said that the draft of merchant seamen was a "normal procedure" and not an official attempt to "break" a 24-year-old dock tie-up.

The spokesman admitted however, that striking seamen were affected by the call up of merchant sailors.

The Queen Mary, little sister of the Cunard's famous queens, was the first blue-ribbon transatlantic liner hit by the walkout. The "Mary" was prevented from sailing from Southampton this morning.

Prime Minister Anthony Eden has warned that the prolonged port tie-up may cause more harm to Britain's economy than the 17-day rail strike which ended earlier this week.

21 Red POWs May Return Home, But Face Prosecution

EMERGENCY U. S. NEWS CENTER — The government today told the 21 American soldiers who chose communism in Korea that this country would let them come home if they wish but it warned they may be prosecuted.

The announcement was contained in a release issued simultaneously by the White House, State, Defense and Justice departments at 2:30 a. m. CST through the secret information center of Operation Alert.

It said that if anyone of the group gives himself up to a U. S. military authority, he will be turned over to the nearest U. S. consular official.

The procedure apparently is designed to forestall fears by the former GIs that they might be immediately placed under military guard.

The State Department representative is instructed to warn the former prisoners of war that they might be subject to prosecution under either federal or military law after their return.

The State Department representative is to determine whether further action will be taken.

Two Herrin Men Charged with Extortion Attempt

BENTON, Ill. — Two Herrin men today faced charges of attempting to extort money from an amusement company owner.

James C. Norton and Jerry McCormick, both 21 years old, were charged by federal authorities with attempting to extort $1,000 from Earl Walker.

They appeared before U. S. Commissioner Elmer Jenkins in Benton Wednesday and were released on bond of $2,000 each after waiving preliminary hearings.

Jenkins said the two men were charged with sending a letter to Walker threatening to injure his reputation unless the money was paid. The letter directed Walker to take the money to a certain location at Crab Orchard Lake Tuesday night.

Walker followed the instructions but carried a bag full of paper instead of money.

Two postal inspectors, O. W. Norsworthy and A. J. Sicoli of Carbondale, arrested the two men when they met Walker.

Draft British Seamen as Strike Halts Luxury Ships

LONDON — The British government today began drafting striking merchant seamen into the military services after their unofficial strike had halted the sailing of the luxury liner Queen Mary and other passenger ships. Thousands of tourists were stranded.

A Labor Ministry spokesman said that the draft of merchant seamen was a "normal procedure" and not an official attempt to "break" a 24-year-old dock tie-up.

The spokesman admitted however, that striking seamen were affected by the call up of merchant sailors.

The Queen Mary, little sister of the Cunard's famous queens, was the first blue-ribbon transatlantic liner hit by the walkout. The "Mary" was prevented from sailing from Southampton this morning.

Prime Minister Anthony Eden has warned that the prolonged port tie-up may cause more harm to Britain's economy than the 17-day rail strike which ended earlier this week.

21 Red POWs May Return Home, But Face Prosecution

EMERGENCY U. S. NEWS CENTER — The government today told the 21 American soldiers who chose communism in Korea that this country would let them come home if they wish but it warned they may be prosecuted.

The announcement was contained in a release issued simultaneously by the White House, State, Defense and Justice departments at 2:30 a. m. CST through the secret information center of Operation Alert.

It said that if anyone of the group gives himself up to a U. S. military authority, he will be turned over to the nearest U. S. consular official.

The procedure apparently is designed to forestall fears by the former GIs that they might be immediately placed under military guard.

The State Department representative is instructed to warn the former prisoners of war that they might be subject to prosecution under either federal or military law after their return.

The State Department representative is to determine whether further action will be taken.

Briggle Orders Dale's Appearance In Court Monday

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle today ordered convicted labor racketeer Evan Dale produced in court by the U. S. marshal next Monday morning.

Dale's appearance here concerns the government's case against him for alleged $104,656 income tax evasion. Most of the income concerned involves accusations of labor shakedowns.

Briggle previously set Dale's trial for July 11 but it appeared the hearing next week might be for an earlier disposition of the case.

Jury Awards $307,000 for Personal Injury

GENEVA, Ill. (AP) — A jury today handed down a $307,000 personal injury award, topping an Illinois record only one day old.

Kane County Circuit Judge Mel Abrahamson opened a sealed verdict making an award of $300,000 to Delbert Hulke and $7,000 to his small son for burns suffered in a bottled gas explosion.

Only Wednesday, a new state record had been set in Chicago when a 4-year-old girl obtained a $200,000 award.

A five-week trial preceded the verdict in favor of Hulke and his son. The jury got the case at 4:21 p. m. Wednesday, and turned in its sealed verdict at 10:15 p. m.

Hulke was a workman on the installation of a new floor in a bowling alley in Elgin. The bottled gas was being used in the basement to keep fresh concrete from freezing.

Hulke charged that through some defect, the container of gas exploded when he stopped by on a Sunday to check on the project, accompanied by his son. He said he was permanently injured.

UN Health Group Reports Serious Increase in Lung Cancer

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The United Nations World Health Organization today reported a "serious increase" in death from lung cancer. The report did not suggest that excessive cigarette smoking is the cause.

The increase in deaths from cancer of the respiratory system, and especially of the lungs and throat, was reported in a statistical review by Dr. M. Pascua, WHO's director-consultant on health statistics.

She is survived by three daughters and three sons, Mrs. Maud Brown, Mrs. Anna Gregg, Mrs. May Cox, Bertis, Bryan and Riley Endicott, all of the Ridgway area.

Begin Second Odom Murder Trial at Marion

MARION, Ill. (AP) — The second trial of Fred Odom on a murder charge began today with attorneys opening statements.

Selection of a jury to hear the trial of the 40-year-old Marion electrician was completed late Wednesday in Williamson County Circuit Court. Questioning of prospective jurors began Monday afternoon.

Odom is accused of killing Lorin Norman, 25, by hitting him on the head with a stick of firewood last summer at a picnic. His first trial earlier this year was declared a mistrial when one of the jurors died after the trial began.

Pay Raise for State Workers Approved

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — The House today passed bills to give state employees a 10 per cent pay raise July 1 and to provide for automatic salary raises every six months thereafter in eight to nine steps for 22 salary levels.

The bills now go to the Senate. The measures, under bi-partisan sponsorship headed by Rep. Noble W. Lee (R-Chicago) would also change some salary classifications and require that employees getting the automatic pay raises give satisfactory service. The raises would not become effective unless funds were available, however.

House Appropriates $780,000 for State Program for Care of Premature Babies

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The Illinois Senate today received a House bill to appropriate $780,000 to the Department of Public Health to resume the state program for care of premature babies.

The State Health Department recently announced it was halting the premature baby care program, carried on at hospitals in East St. Louis, Springfield and Peoria. There was an immediate protest from doctors and health officials.

The House passed the bill, sponsored by Rep. Allen J. Dixon (D-Bellefonte) Wednesday.

Included among other bills passed by the House were measures to: appropriate $15,000 for an "aviation revenue laws investigating commission" to conduct a two-year study on the taxing of operating property of airlines in and through Illinois.

Create two new Illinois state fair harness races, the "free for all" trot and pace for horses four years and older who previously qualified under conditions of the Illinois colt stakes; and create the post of $6,000 a year inspector for eligibility of entrants for all the races.

Special Auto Plates

Permit revenue from unencumbered city sewerage systems to be used to pay off non-city sewerage system bonds.

Increase the salary of the Cook County state's attorney from $17,000 to $22,000.

Authorize the state to take ownership of the Illinois and Mississippi Canal and Suisun Canal from the federal government for conversion to a state park. This would be under an agreement which would cost the state about $70,000 after $4 million in federal improvements.

Cut off state aid to all high school districts with less than 60 pupils after June 30, 1957, repealing a previous law which would have cut off state aid for such districts this July.

Permit the Chicago school district to collect the per capita cost, instead of the present $600, for each student in the Chicago Teachers College taking teacher training.

Provide for issuance of special auto license plates to members of the General Assembly.

Require consolidated school districts to elect seven member boards at the next election.

Require all milk sold to meet the conditions of the Grade A milk laws except for manufactured milk products, milk used on farms, and milk and milk products sold on the premises by the producer if his cattle are free from brucellosis and tuberculosis.

Give Illinois foaled race horses

a weight allowance of 5 pounds in horse races on Illinois tracks.

Study School Aid

Permits the state auditor to issue corporation charters for firms to guarantee or insure credit union investments.

Raise the limit of recovery for wrongful death from $20,000 to $25,000.

Appropriate $50,000 for a study of the state school aid program for the next two years by the superintendent of instruction.

Require the State Highway Division to assist counties in long-range road improvement programs.

Permit use of public downstate tuberculosis sanitariums that are vacant for care of the chronically ill.

Ban the cashing of checks where liquor is sold at retail for consumption on the premises.

Give circuit, city, superior and town court shorthand reporters a 10 per cent raise.

Give Chicago greater supervision powers over hotels of the flophouse type where the recent tragic fires occurred.

Repeal compulsory retirement of state employees at 70.

Appropriate $177,400 to enlarge the House of Representatives for the larger House elected under legislative reapportionment.

Make certain lighting requirements for trucks.

Designate Nov. 11 as Veterans Day instead of Armistice Day.

15 Killed in Crash of Brazilian Plane in Paraguay

ASUNCION, Paraguay (AP) — A Panair do Brasil Constellation en route from Rio de Janeiro to Buenos Aires crashed just outside Asuncion early today while preparing to land.

At least 15 persons among the 21 passengers and crew members aboard were killed.

Among the passengers saved were a married couple, an Austrian, and a Paraguayan named Augusto Franco. One crew member also was reported saved.

The crash occurred at 1:15 a. m. as the plane circled for a landing 7 1/2 miles from Asuncion, near the Paraguay river.

Panair announced in Rio de Janeiro that five passengers and one crewman survived the crash and were hospitalized at Asuncion. The plane was destroyed.

The company located the crash at the village of Villa Elisa.

Dixon-Yates Forces Win In House Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, in a tentative victory for Dixon-Yates forces, declined today to put up funds to build a new power plant for the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The action was subject to a possible upset later on a roll call vote. Considering the mood of the House, however, it seemed likely to stand.

Although apparently licked on the TVA issue, Democrats held in reserve another possible weapon against the administration's Dixon-Yates private power proposal—a move to bar spending for a government power line to pick up the Dixon-Yates power.

The Democrats lost the first round, 198-169, on a non-record vote.

The test was on an amendment to eliminate a $12 million dollar sum allotted by the Appropriations committee to start work on a 90-million-dollar TVA steam generating plant at Fulton, Tenn., near Memphis. The amendment was adopted, knocking out the steam plant money.

Other congressional news:

Reserves: The Senate Armed Services committee decided to vote Friday on whether to try to break the stalemate holding up congressional action on the administration's military reserve program. The program has been shelved in the House. The administration hopes the Senate committee will take it up.

Tito: Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has secretly advised the House Foreign Affairs committee it would be unwise to continue aid to Communist Yugoslavia indefinitely "without more assurance than we now have" as to where Marshal Tito would stand in an international emergency.

Wheat: Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.) urged approval of a two-price system for wheat. Farmers would be guaranteed parity under the program for wheat consumed by people in this country but would get only the market price for wheat used as animal feed and by industry or exported. Such a system, Carlson said, "would support itself" and take the government "out of the business of buying wheat."

Big Three Foreign Ministers Hold Strategy Session

NEW YORK (AP) — The Western Big Three foreign ministers, seeking a united front for next week's talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov in San Francisco, began a two-day strategy session here today.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived by air from Washington Wednesday night. British Foreign Secretary Harold MacMillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay flew to New York this morning in separate planes.

They gathered at Wave Hill, the official residence of Sir Pierson Dixon, ambassador to the United Nations. There the talks were scheduled to begin at a lunch given by MacMillan for his two counterparts.

Molotov Frisco Bound

Molotov had gone on before them. Arriving by ship early Wednesday morning, he left for San Francisco by train Wednesday night.

Dulles, MacMillan, Pinay and Molotov were slated to meet there during next week's 10th anniversary commemorative session of the United Nations to plan the agenda for the "summit meeting" of the Big Four heads of government due to open at Geneva July 18.

Russia, through Radio Moscow propaganda broadcasts and Pravda newspaper editorials, has made it clear that it does not want to talk about international Communism or the possible withdrawal of Soviet troops from the Iron Curtain satellite countries at Geneva.

The United States would like to discuss both these issues fully. Britain and France also had pet ideas it wanted on the "summit" agenda and it was the purpose of the current strategy session here to bring the Western viewpoints into one solid front before the talks with Molotov begin.

Britain leaned to a discussion of the hydrogen bomb, disarmament and the future of Germany.

Sulphur Springs

Weather is beautiful for the farmers now.

The oil men are now circulating therefore people have a good chance for oil leasing.

Those who called with Mrs. K. Church Monday evening were Mrs. Pearl Haney, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hathaway, and Mrs. Gladys Godbey of Eldorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Certain visited relatives in Harrisburg recently.

Mr. and Mrs. John Adams visited his father in Eldorado Sunday.

A large crowd assembled at the Rocky Branch church for the Union Association meeting Sunday evening. The next singing will be at Sulphur Springs the first Sunday in July. An all day singing and dinner at noon will be held. Everybody is welcome. A quartette will be present.

Sunday school was well attended Sunday as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. Newt Church visited with friends at Eldorado Sunday.

Mrs. Dorothy Oxford purchased a rocking chair from the church home Thursday.

Those who have been on the sick list for a short time are Mrs. K. Church and Mrs. Jim Carnell.

K. Church lost a dog recently. The young people's meeting is coming along nicely with Mrs. Mary Lee Adams as leader.

Miss Doris Jean Church and Fred Chamness were married recently at the First Congregational church in Tallahassee, Fla. They are planning to visit in Sulphur Springs later in the summer. Both are going to finish college.

An average of 363 persons die each year in the United States from freezing and frostbite.

Payments of Benefits to Autoworkers Depends on Action by State Legislatures

By United Press
A loophole in the Ford and General Motors guaranteed wage plan covering 515,000 auto workers could cause a political battle in state legislatures which might even prevent the plan from going into effect.

The loophole is a provision that no payments are to be made from the Ford and General Motors "job security" funds during lay-offs until state officials authorize the plan for company benefits as a supplement to the state unemployment benefits.

The contracts provide that the company benefits will not start before favorable rulings have been obtained in states in which Ford and General Motors have two-thirds of their employees.

If favorable state rulings are not given before June, 1957, the whole plan is to be terminated.

A United Press survey to determine what state legislatures are doing to amend unemployment laws which are in conflict with the GAW plan revealed that most states are "confused" about many legal questions and it may be a long time before solutions are found.

No Decision

Ohio tried to solve the problem in its state Senate this week, but Republicans and Democrats squared off in a two-hour verbal slugfest and the bill died with no decision being reached. The Republicans were against passing the bill and the Democrats were for it.

Now a special Ohio legislative committee will have to study the law and a decision will have to wait until the Legislature meets again in 1957.

If Michigan and Ohio, for example, gave the green light to the GAW plan, it could go into effect in June, 1956. Both General Motors and Ford have two-thirds of their employees in these two states.

Bill to Change Primary Election Date Tabled by Committee

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Gov. William G. Stratton's bill to change the primary election date from the second Tuesday in April to the second Tuesday in June today was tabled by the Illinois House Election Committee by a 17-13 vote.

Majority Leader John W. Lewis Jr. (R-Marshall) and Majority Whip William E. Pollack (R-Chicago) who failed to steer the bill through the committee, said they will ask the House to discharge the committee for consideration of the bill and bring it to the House floor.

Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, said the plan could work without legislative action if state attorney generals hand down favorable rulings.

The Big Problem

The big problem of the guaranteed annual wage arises from the fact that workers receiving this pay would lose all or part of their unemployment compensation benefits in at least 26 states.

In at least five states, workers paid a guaranteed wage by their employers would lose all unemployment benefits. These states are California, Connecticut, Kansas, Minnesota and Mississippi.

In at least 20 other states, only partial unemployment benefits would be allowed. In most of these states, no benefits would be paid if the guaranteed wage exceeded the amount of the benefit to which the worker was entitled.

The key states, as far as the auto industry is concerned, are Michigan, Ohio, New York and Illinois, where Ford has over 80 per cent of its workers. General Motors has 320,000 of its 375,000 employees in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and New York.

In Illinois, Gov. William Stratton is backing State Labor Department recommendations to allow workers to collect employer-paid jobless benefits without a cut in their state unemployment compensation benefits.

Western Michigan, Wake Forest to Play for Championship of NCAA Series

OMAHA, Neb. (U) — Well-rested Western Michigan sends its ace left-hander, Gary Graham, against Wake Forest's right-handed sophomore, Buck Fichter, tonight in the championship game of the NCAA college world series.

Wake Forest won a berth in the finals Wednesday night by blanking Oklahoma A&M, 2-0, behind the four-hit pitching of John Stokoe. Western Michigan drew a bye Wednesday night because it was the last team to lose in the double-elimination tournament.

Tonight's battle will be the third meeting between Wake Forest and Western Michigan. The Michigan team won the first game, 9-0, while the Deacons took the second, 10-7.

Graham, a senior who has chalked up a 7-1 record in the tournament, will be backed by Micki Schwartzkoff, a sophomore right-hander who has won eight straight in tournament play.

Western Michigan appeared to have an advantage since it got a day of rest while Wake Forest had to play right down to the wire. The Michigan team gave Fichter his lumps in their 9-0 win in the first meeting between the teams, driving him to the showers after 2 2/3 innings. Fichter has a 5-2 record in tournament play.

Wake Forest got a masterful pitching performance from Stokoe in last night's win over Oklahoma A&M. Stokoe fanned nine batters and proved cool in the clutch as he retired the side after two men had reached base in each of the first, fourth, sixth and seventh innings.

Aggie hurler Bob Garrett allowed only three hits but walked six. Third baseman Bill Barnes figured in both of Wake Forest's runs. He singled home the first run in the third and then scored in the sixth after reaching base on an error.

Billy Cox, Wally Westlake, Involved in Trade, Refuse to Join New Clubs

BALTIMORE, Md. (U) — Third baseman Billy Cox and outfielder Wally Westlake, two of the principals in Wednesday's trade between the Cleveland Indians and Baltimore Orioles, have refused to join their new clubs, it was reported today.

Cox, traded to the Indians, said he was quitting baseball and left for his home in Newport, Pa. Westlake, sent to Baltimore, reported to the Orioles for a few minutes Wednesday night and then flew back to his home in Cleveland.

Both were involved in the deal in which Cox and outfielder George Woodling went to the Indians, Woodling in exchange for Westlake, outfielder Dave Pope and cash.

Westlake drove from Washington, where the Indians played Wednesday night, to Baltimore and after a brief discussion with Orioles officials, flew to Cleveland. He said he had an agreement with the Indians that he was to receive some extra money if he were traded to another club.

The 35-year-old Cox was reported ready to quit because he was discouraged with his play this season. His batting average was only .211 and he struck out several times during the Orioles' latest road trip. After the Orioles lost a 12-inning game to the Indians, Manager Paul Richards also bawled out Cox for a fielding play.

"I guess I've had it," Cox muttered disconsolately to a reporter upon hearing that he had been traded.

Orlones Need Shortstop
Cox gave no reason for his decision to quit baseball. As a member of the Indians, he was in line for a share of the World Series pool which goes to members of the first four clubs in each league.

At the same time, it was learned that the Orioles were attempting to acquire shortstop Sam Dente from the Indians in a separate waiver deal. With Cox traded and Willie Miranda bothered by a leg injury, Baltimore has no regular shortstop. Waivers would be necessary in order to acquire Dente because the June 15 trading deadline has passed.

If Cox goes through with his intention of quitting baseball, the Indians will attempt to get back Westlake. However, in order for him to return to Cleveland, waivers from other American League

Cokes, Pankey's, Auto Trimmers Win Kiwanis Games

By David Nelson
The Auto Trimmers edged the Sugar Creek, 9-7; Pankey's slaughtered Dairy Brand, 28-8, and the Coca Cola beat the Sahara Coals, 16-5, in Kiwanis league games played Wednesday.

In the closest game of the day the Auto Trimmers beat Sugar Creek, 9-7. Losing, 9-4, going in to the seventh, the Sugar Creek team threatened with three runs but fell two short of a tie with the Trimmers. Robertson got two of the winners' seven hits, while Wirth and Rhodes collected two each of the losers' eight safeties. Beal was the winning pitcher.

Pankey's had a field day as they scored 28 runs on 19 hits and 15 walks in the four inning tilt. Hunt, the winning pitcher, led the winners at bat with five hits in five trips. Potter and Hunt hit homers for Pankey's. Dairy Brand picked up eight runs on six hits.

Wildness on the part of the Sahara Coals' pitchers proved to be their downfall as the Coca Cola bunched nine hits with 11 walks to score 16 runs for a 16-5 victory. Yarber, Cokes, rightfielder, led both clubs with three safe hits. Clark was the winning pitcher.

Fox Hits Two Homers and Four Singles as White Sox Divide Games with Orioles

Nelson Fox weighs in at a mere 142 pounds, tobacco chaw and all, but he's swinging the big stick in the Chicago White Sox' June drive to wrest the American league lead from the New York Yankees.

Fox, called "the greatest player pound for pound in the game today" by White Sox General Manager Frank Lane, slashed a homer and two singles in each game Wednesday night as Chicago divided a doubleheader with the Baltimore Orioles. The split moved the White Sox to within two games of the Yankees and gave them a one-game lead over the third-place Cleveland Indians.

Fox' six hits in eight tries raised his batting average to .323 and the two homers gave him a total of five for the season — a personal single season high. He's driven in 25 runs this year and has 20 extra base blows among his 71 hits.

Bobby Young's eighth-inning single drove in Gil Coan and negated Fox' first-game heroics as the Orioles scored a 5-1 victory. But Nellie homered in the third inning and also delivered a single when the White Sox scored their second run in the eighth inning en route to a 2-0 nightcap victory.

Mike Fierieles, Billy Pierce and Sandy Consuegra all pitched in the nightcap as White Sox pitchers achieved their fourth shutout in their last six games. It was also the ninth shutout of the year for the staff — high for both leagues and a pace which would enable it to challenge the American league mark of 30 for a season set by the 1906 White Sox.

The White Sox, incidentally, have traveled at a .692 pace with 9 wins in 13 games this month while the Yankees have won only 9 of 17 games and the Indians have broken even in 16 games.

Billy Hoefft gained credit for his sixth victory with relief aid from Werner Birrer in the ninth as the Detroit Tigers beat the Yankees, 5-4. Jim Delmonico and Frank House homered for the Tigers while sub first baseman Ed Robinson hit No. 12 and 13 for the Yankees. Johnny Kueks was routed in the third inning and charged with his third loss.

Southpaw Dean Stone limited the Indians to three singles in piloting the Washington Senators to a 7-0 triumph. The Senators, who snapped a seven-game losing streak as well as Cleveland's five-game winning skein, knocked out Bob Feller in a six-run fourth frame that included Roy Sievers' three-run homer. Johnny Groth also homered for Washington.

Mel Parnell yielded three homers and needed Tom Hurd's help in the ninth inning but registered his first win of 1955 as the Boston Red Sox beat the Kansas City Athletics, 9-6, in the other American league game.

Redlegs Beat Dodgers

In the National league, the Brooklyn Dodgers bowed to the Cincinnati Redlegs, 5-2, but maintained their 11-1-2 game hold on first place when the New York Giants beat the second-place Chicago Cubs, 7-2. The Philadelphia Phils defeated the Milwaukee Braves, 4-0, and the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-3, in other games.

Rudy Minarcin, who pitched a one-hitter in his previous start, limited the Dodgers to four hits and had a shutout until the ninth when Junior Gilliam hit a two-run homer. Gus Bell drove in three runs with a homer, double and single to pace Cincinnati's attack.

Paul Giel, $45,000 bonus pitcher and former Minnesota football star, won his first big league game for the Giants. Giel started the winning ninth-inning rally with a dou-

Johnston City Rail Worker Convicted of Unemployment Fraud

Calvin H. Carter of Johnston City has been put on probation for three years in Federal Court at East St. Louis on the condition he refund unemployment benefits obtained by making fraudulent registrations. Carter, employed as a car cleaner by the Illinois Central Railroad near Herrin, plead guilty on May 27 in Judge Fred L. Wham's court to claiming unemployment benefits on days he was regularly employed.

According to Courtney G. Clower, district manager of the Railroad Retirement Board, Carter obtained over $600 in unemployment benefits to which he was not entitled during the overall period December 7, 1963 through August 6, 1954. Mr. Clower explained that any person fraudulently claiming benefits under the United States Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act may be subject to one year in jail or a fine of $10,000 or both.

BREWED THE Old World WAY FOR Old Time BEER GOODNESS!

If you really like beer you'll just naturally go for G.B.'s "old time beer goodness."

We believe that's because we brew G.B. the old world way—to taste the way all beer should taste. And while we have one of the world's most modern breweries, we cling to this unhurried, old world brewing tradition, just as our fathers have for almost 200 years.

Have you tried G.B. lately? It sure tastes wonderful! Order some, today!

Senate Poll by Newsweek Sees Ike-Stevenson Race

WASHINGTON UP—Most of the nation's senators already are convinced it will be President Eisenhower against Adlai E. Stevenson again next year, a Newsweek magazine poll showed today.

Eighty-four of the Senate's 96 members answered Newsweek's question about prospects for the 1956 presidential race. The majority was certain that Mr. Eisenhower will run again, the magazine said, and while Stevenson may have "some qualms... they're doubtful that he can avoid" the Democratic nomination.

Nothing pleases father as much as Double Chocolate Cake. Bake one for him tonight as a real Father's Day surprise.

DOUBLE CHOCOLATE CAKE (Makes a 2-Layer 8" Cake)

With your favorite brand of package cakemix (calling for milk) use a mixture of 2 parts Carnation Evaporated Milk diluted with 1 part water. Prepare and bake according to package directions for a higher, lighter cake. Ice cooled cake layers with "Jiffy Chocolate Icing."

JIFFY CHOCOLATE ICING (Makes icing for 2 8-inch layers)

- 1 cup (6 ounce package) semi-sweet chocolate bits
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1 1/2 cups sifted confectioners sugar
- 1/2 cup undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk

Melt chocolate and butter over hot water. Allow to cool thoroughly. Blend sugar and Carnation alternately into cooled chocolate mixture. Beat briskly until creamy. Spread between, on sides and top of cooled cake layers.

Dad's Day deserves special attention. Serve him foods he loves most. Top His Day with a Delicious Chocolate Cake, always a man's favorite. We've priced the ingredients specially low.

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Mrs. Lottie W. Caldwell recently observed her 103rd birthday.

A former school teacher, she said she has outlived all her pupils except one — Mrs. Fanny Meade, 92, of West Lafayette.

What does Mrs. Caldwell do to pass the time?

"A while back I counted all the people walking by in red coats and green coats," she said. "And the reds won."

How to live past a century? Mrs. Caldwell suggested an "active life" and also quoted a Civil War veteran's advice. "Breathe through your nose and keep your mouth shut."

celebrating the event.

MEMPHIS — Mrs. Flora Witt celebrated her 102nd birthday with some observations on what's wrong with the younger generation.

"When I was young," she said, "children obeyed their parents. Now, it's almost as if the parents obeyed the children."

The 1954 rate of 37 deaths per 100 million passenger miles resulted from three fatal accidents which took a total of 23 lives, the council said. The airlines' best previous mark was 35 in 1952.

There were no fatalities in overseas service of U. S. airlines last year, the council said.

Cathedral vs. Church

The distinction between a cathedral and a church is that any building used for worship is called a church, where the word cathedral comes from the Latin "Cathedra," which means the official throne of a bishop. Thus, a cathedral technically is the bishop's church.
